

DEVELOPING WITH US IS SIMPLE LIKE ABC

Automation of technical processes and production

A set of systems and modern equipment that help reduce the participation of the human factor in the manufacturing process

Comprehensive production automation includes:

- high information content;
- the ability to analyze the technological situation;
- high accuracy of measurement of technological parameters and their regulation;
- prospects for expanding control systems;
- possibility of creating automatic jobs.

Corporate accounting systems development

Accounting applications are needed to simplify financial reporting and free up professional time.

- calculating marginal profit (for different areas of business or at stages of product redistribution);
- allocating overhead costs effectively;
- determining the cost of goods and services;
- calculating the profitability of the enterprise by product and service categories;
- finding the break-even point;
- calculating operating leverage.
